Current AMBI student, Jacob Appel, MD, has had a paper accepted at Cambridge Quarterly of Healthcare Ethics. His paper, "Privacy vs. History: How far should the dead hand reach?" explores the question of determining the ethical limitations of scientific research on the remains of long-dead subjects. He began work on this paper in AMBI 507 Classic Cases taught by Professor Wayne Shelton during the fall 2010 term.